MENTAL HEALTH & CAMPUS SURVEY

WHO WE ARE

The Environmental Design Lab was founded at UW–Madison with a mission to improve health equity in the places people call home. Led by Dr. Sam Dennis, we work directly with community partners and neighborhoods through participatory planning and design. Our broader focus has been on health and the built and natural environment, which brings us to our present research on mental health and urban green spaces.

WHAT ARE WE STUDYING?

The aim of the study is to research where students in distress go to cope, especially students with mental disorders, within the landscape and built environment on campus. This is an anonymous survey conducted through the University of Wisconsin-Madison's Qualtrics survey software.
